Register of Officers of United States Colored Troops, Appointed from This State.

(Showing grade held and organization when leaving the service, and in the alphabetical register their record.)

The formation of colored men into military organizations under State designations commenced as early as May, 1862; it was officially commenced by the War Department, May 22, 1863. The regiments ordered then to be formed were to be designated "(such) regiment of United States Colored Troops," and there were formed regiments of cavalry, of light and heavy artillery and of infantry. The regiments formed heretofore under State designations, with the exceptions of the 54th and 55th Mass. Regiments, the 29th Conn. Regiment, and the 6th and 7th La. Regiments (the latter two short term regiments), were subsequently renamed as above.

The War Department credits this State with 4,125 men in the U. S. Colored Troops, and the 20th, 26th and 31st regiments of this service were organized, practically, in this State.

Officers of the Veteran Reserve Corps who were Appointed Therein from the State of New York.

The organization of an invalid corps was authorized April 28, 1863. The corps was to be made up of those who were unfit for field service from wounds received in action or disease contracted in line of duty, but were still capable of effective garrison or other light duty as may be required of an invalid corps, and of those who for the same reasons had been discharged but were desirous to re-enter the service. The Provost Marshal-General of the United States was charged with the organization of this corps.

March 14, 1864, the designation of the corps was changed to Veteran Reserve Corps.

The act of Congress, approved July 25, 1861, authorized the President to appoint such number of Major-Generals and Brigadier-Generals as in his judgment may be required for the organization of the volunteer forces. Act of Congress, approved August 5, 1861, authorized the appointment of such number of (additional) Aides-de-Camp, with the rank of Captain, Major, Lieutenant-Colonel and Colonel, in addition to those already authorized, as the exigencies of the service may, in the opinion of the President, require. Act of July 17, 1862, reduced the number of Aides-de-Camp allowed under act approved July 22, 1861, for Major-Generals to two, and for Brigadier-Generals, to one; provided as a staff for each Army Corps one Assistant Adjutant-General, one Assistant Inspector-General, one Quartermaster, one Commissary of Subsistence, each of the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, and three Aides-de-Camp, one with the rank of Major and two with the rank of Captain; it also provided for the appointment of a Judge-Advocate, of the rank of Major, for each army in the field. Act approved May 2, 1863, authorized the appointment, in addition to the number allowed, of thirty Major-Generals and seventy-five Brigadier-Generals. Act approved March 3, 1863, authorized the organization of a Signal Corps. Act of Congress, approved July 4, 1864, authorized the assignment of a Quartermaster to each army in the field of more than one corps, to each military depot and principal depot, as Chief Quartermaster, who while thus assigned shall have the temporary rank of Colonel. ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, May 22, 1885.

Brig.-Gen. RICHARD C. DRUM,
Adjutant-General United States Army:

SIR: I have the honor to report the completion of the statistical statement of deaths in the United States Army during the late war, compiled in obedience to your order of June 2, 1884.

In the prosecution of the work all records of this office affording information upon the subject have been carefully and thoroughly examined. The table herewith submitted exhibits the result.

The aggregate mortality within the Union lines is the nearest approximation to the real loss attainable, and may be regarded as conclusive.

With the deaths occurring among prisoners of war the result is not so satisfactory. Unfortunately, the records of Southern prisons in possession of the Department are very incomplete. In fact, the death registers of some of the principal places of confinement for Union soldiers have not been secured. Notably among these are Americus, Georgia; Atlanta, Georgia; Augusta, Georgia; Camp Ford, Tyler, Texas; Camp Oglethorpe, Macon, Georgia; Charleston, South Carolina; Lynchburg, Virginia; Marietta, Georgia; Mobile, Alabama; Montgomery, Alabama; Savannah, Georgia; and Shreveport, Louisiana. Besides these, only partial records were obtained from the following-named important prisons: Cahawba, Alabama; Camp Asylum, Columbia, South Carolina; Florence, South Carolina; Millen, Georgia; and Salisbury, North Carolina.

It is true that evidence of death was often communicated to the proper military authorities by surviving comrades, and the report of burials in national cemeteries, or "Roll of Honor," supplies a large number; but these sources of information, together with the Confederate records obtained by the government, have proved deficient. As to the incompleteness of the interment record, a report prepared in the office of the Quartermaster-General, in 1869, says: "It is well known that at many places, as, for instance, at Salisbury, North Carolina, and at Florence, South Carolina, etc., the bodies were buried in trenches, often two, three, sometimes even four deep, so that the accurate number of bodies interred at these places cannot be determined." These facts warrant the belief that the actual number of Union soldiers who died in Confederate hands exceeds the number shown by the table.

It will also be seen that the cause of death in 12,121 cases is not of record in this office. Future investigations will probably, to a certain extent, elicit the cause, and thus diminish the number appearing under that head. A corresponding increase of other classifications would naturally follow. It is, however, fair to assume that the grand aggregate will not hereafter be materially altered.

The column of "other known causes" includes all deaths resulting from quarrels, riots and the like, and which are not definitely reported as murder; from being shot for insubordination, or by provost-guards or sentinels in attempting to escape or pass the lines; from exhaustion or exposure; killed while depredating upon the property of citizens; and all other causes not embraced in the preceding columns.

The period represented by the phrase "during the late war," in the caption of the table, embraces, in the case of the Regular Army, the time comprehended between April 15, 1861, and August 1, 1865. For the volunteers, of all descriptions, it covers the period from date of muster-in to the date of final muster-out of each organization, excepting prisoners of war who died after the discharge of their commands. These, so far as known, are counted.

The greater portion of the Volunteer Army was disbanded during the summer and fall of 1865, but the subsequent gradual reduction of the force was not fully consummated until late in 1867. The last white organization was disbanded November 18, 1867, and the last colored regiment December 20, 1867. The last officer of the volunteer general staff was mustered out July 1, 1869.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. W. KIRKLEY.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

With the exception of three Massachusetts regiments (organized and officered exclusively by the State authorities) whose casualties are included with those of the white troops from that State, all losses in the 178,975 colored troops are reported separately, irrespective of any credits allowed upon the quotas of the States. The deaths in the excepted regiments aggregated 574.

In all other cases the figures in the column of deaths represent only such as occurred among the white troops and Indians. Information relative to the number of deaths in the Navy and Marine Corps belongs to the Navy Department.

The colored soldiers organized under the direct authority of the General Government and not credited to any State were recruited as follows:

In Alabama, 4,969; Arkansas, 5,526; Colorado, 95; Florida, 1,044; Georgia, 3,486; Louisiana, 24,052; Mississippi, 17,869; North Carolina, 5,035; South Carolina, 5,462; Tennessee, 20,133; Texas, 47; Virginia, 5,723.

There were also 5,896 negro soldiers enlisted at large or whose credits are not specifically expressed by the records.

Of the number of colored troops credited to the States, 5,052 were obtained, under the provisions of section 3, act of Congress approved July 4, 1864, from the States that had seceded.

The number of officers and men in the Regular Army among whom the casualties herein noted occurred is estimated at 67,000; the number in the Veteran Reserve Corps was 60,508; and in Hancock's Veteran Corps, 10,883.

The other organizations of white volunteers, organized directly by the U. S. authorities, numbered about 11,000.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, July 15, 1885.

Approved, and will be printed as a supplement to the statistical exhibit of deaths in the U. S. Army during the late war.

R. C. DRUM,
Adjutant-General.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9, 1880.

There were in the service during the war as of this State 400,000 individuals; of these there died in the service 53,114.

Of these 400,000 there are claimed as New York Volunteers 310,000 indivduals, of whom there died in the service 48,055.

The Commissioner of Pensions estimates that of the soldiers discharged for disability 25,284 died during the period of the war up to July 1, 1865. The pro rata share of this number as from this State would be over 4,000, and added to those who died in service, would make the number of deaths of those from this State 57,114, and of the State Volunteers 51,055.

Based on the foregoing there were survivors at the close of the war of those from this State 342,886, and of the State Volunteers 258,945.

Of these survivors it is supposed that there entered into the service:

Individuals to the Credit of the State.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| In 1861 and 1862 | 200,000, | less 28,557 | who died as above, leaving | 171,443 survivors. |
| In 1863 and 1864 | 170,000, | less 24,273 | who died as above, leaving | 145,727 survivors. |
| In 1865 | 30,000, | less 4,014 | who died as above, leaving | 25,716 survivors. |
| Total | 400,000, | less 57,114 | who died as above, leaving | 342,886 survivors. |

State Volunteers.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| In 1861 and 1862 | 155,000, | less 25,528 | who died as above, leaving | 129,472 survivors. |
| In 1863 and 1864 | 132,000, | less 21,727 | who died as above, leaving | 110,273 survivors. |
| In 1865 | 23,000, | less 3,800 | who died as above, leaving | 19,200 survivors. |
| Total | 310,000, | less 51,055 | who died as above, leaving | 258,945 survivors. |

Elsewhere the average age of those who entered the service was estimated to have been 25 years at the time of such entry.

This average age probably does not apply actually to those men who entered the service in 1861 and 1862, as a very large number of them were very young men; their average age may therefore be presumed to be lower, say 24 years of age; in 1863 and 1864, as still a large number were young men, their average age may be estimated to have been, say 24½ years; in 1865, for the number of older men predominated largely then and there were but very few young men, their average age was probably 27 years.

Adding to these average ages the average time from entry to close of war, would make the average age for all, those who served as of this State and those who served in New York Volunteers, at the close of the war 27 years.

Service in the war left its effects on every one, especially those who served any length of time or who were disabled in the service by disease or wounds. The Commissioner of Pensions finds the effect of the service in the case of men, pensioners, who were wounded or otherwise disabled in the service to be equal to the shortening of the expectation of life by twelve years and bases his statement on the examination of 16,000 cases; he also estimates the number subject to this shortening of life to be about one-third of the survivors.

There are estimated to have been survivors of those who served as of this State, 342,886; one-third of these is 114,295 whose life expectation is shortened by twelve years; the remainder, 228,591, are to be taken as of 27 years of age at the close of the war.

Of those who served in the State Volunteers 258,945; one-third of these is 86,315, whose life expectation is shortened twelve years; the remainder, 172,630, represent men 27 years old at close of war.

Based on the American table of mortality there would probably have died by the end of 1908 of those who served as of this State 242,145, leaving 100,741, or 29.38 per cent. as survivors; as of State Volunteers, 182,725, leaving 76,220, or 29.40 per cent. as survivors.

Of these survivors the average age would then be about 68 years, as the dead no doubt contain a larger proportion of the older men. Taking this age as a basis there would be in 1915, fifty years after the close of the war, 68,141 or 16.95 per cent, and 43,798 or 16.91 per cent. respectively, as survivors. There were 16,000 officers of the New York Volunteers, whose average age at time of entry in service has been estimated to have been 27½ years; adding to this, as average length of service, two and one-half years, would make their average age at close of war 30 years.

These 16,000 include 1,674 who died in service; suppose that twenty-six died out of service but during the period of the war, this would leave as survivors 14,300 of those who served as officers in the New York Volunteers. (Note — these are included above in the numbers of State Volunteers.)

By the end of 1908 there would have died of these, based on the American table of mortality, and allowing for the shortening of life expectation for one-third of them, 11,015, leaving 3,285 or 22.97 per cent. survivors whose age may be estimated as 70 years, the deaths so far having been largely of the older men, and of whom the year 1915 may see 1,722 or 12.04 per cent. as survivors.

There is another way to consider, in which an estimate as to probable survivors may be made.

The Commissioner of Pensions states in his annual report for 1907 that there were on the pension roll June 30, 1907, 628,084 survivors of the War of the Rebellion, including the claims of 7,099 not yet adjudicated. Under the present laws relating to pensions all who served in the war at least ninety days and were honorably discharged are eligible to be placed on that roll, and presumably about all are there, except deserters and men not honorably discharged, of whom it may be estimated there are living in 1908, 41,916; making the total number of survivors 690,000.

The Adjutant-General of the U. S. Army states (Appendix) that the enlistments during the war, 2,778,304, converted into three years enlistment give of such to the number of 2,320,369. This number may also be taken as the number of individuals in the service. From it must be taken, however, the men who paid commutation instead of serving, 86,724; the number stated by the same officer as having died in the service 359,528, and the number estimated by the Commissioner of Pensions as having died after leaving the service but before June 30, 1865, namely, 25,284; making the total to be deducted 471,536, and leaving as survivors at the close of the war 1,848,833.

Deduct from these survivors (1,848,833) the men on the pension rolls and those estimated not able to find a place there (670,000) and the result will be that 1,178,833 or 63.76 per cent. are supposed to have died by 1908 and that 670,000 or 36.24 per cent. were then still living.

It will be observed that there is quite a difference in the percentage of living in 1908 between the result based on the American table of mortality and the foregoing based on the report of the Commissioner of Pensions. It is conceded, however, that the American table is not any longer reliable and that the expectation of life has increased since it was made, by at least eight years. The mean between 36 and 29, equal to about 33 per cent., is probably the most reliable one to take for a base of estimate as to the living in 1908.

So far the estimates given above are based on the numbers supposed to be living at the close of the war. Based on the number of individuals who entered the service of the country, the results would be:

Of the 2,320,369, less 86,724 who paid commutation, namely 2,233,645 individuals who are supposed to have served in the war, there are found to be living at the end of 1908 — only 670,000 men or 30 per cent.

Of the 400,000 who served as of this State, there are found to be living at the end of 1908 only 100,741 men or 25.19 per cent.

Of the 310,000 individuals who served as New York Volunteers, there are found to be living at the end of 1908 only 77,220 men or 24.91 per cent.

Of the 16,000 officers, there are supposed to be living at the end of the year 1908 only 3,285 or 20.53 per cent.

When will all the members of that Great and Grand Army, which fought for the very existence of the Union, have assembled "Beyond" for a final review?

The number of enlistments and in this case also individuals who served in the Mexican War is given as 116,321; from this must be deducted, killed 1,049, died of wounds 508, died of disease (estimated) 10,875, a total of 12,432, leaving in 1848 as survivors 103,889. On the pension rolls there were, June 30, 1908, all Mexican War soldiers being entitled to be there, 2,932 survivors or 2.82 per cent. after the lapse of sixty years.

The last soldier of the War of 1812, Hiram Cronk, died at Ava, N. Y., May 13, 1905, aged 105 years and 16 days — ninety years after that war.

The last soldier of the War of the Revolution, Daniel F. Bakeman, died at Freedom, Cattaraugus county, N. Y., April 5, 1869, aged 109 years, 6 months and 8 days — eighty-seven years after the war.
